

THE SWEET WORLD

This is the story of four friends and two different worlds. Their names are Bill, Alison, Mike and Lena.

The last day of school was over and the four friends asked what they were going to do in the summer. And suddenly, Mike had an idea and he proposed it. -And if we go camping to a meadow where you can see the sunrise? The sky is beautiful-. And they thought it was an incredible idea. They were going to stay two days.

They prepared the backpacks and the tent and they got to the meadow. The four friends arrived just in time for the sunset. They saw it lying on the top of a small hill next to the meadow. Then, the boys mounted the tent while the girls were made dinner, the music played on the radio and they sang and danced. After that, the four friends saw the starry sky and the full moon and finally they went to sleep.

In the next morning, when the four friends were taking a walk around the hill it started to rain but it was hot. While they were coming back, the rain stopped and then the rainbow came out. After that, they saw something going towards them. It was an unicorn! They couldn't believe it. The unicorn followed the rainbow that came to them. They were surprised because they were given a letter that said they were invited to go to a parallel world. The four friends rode on the unicorn and went to that parallel world. After a long trip, they went down and saw that that world was all about sweets. They were very surprised and wondered. The trees were lollipops, the rivers were melted chocolate. There was a cookie path that leads to a maze where they had to pass all the tests to fit in that world, it was like a "parchís". They started walking in the maze and the first test was a riddle, they did it and they kept walking. The following was a math problem.

When they finished all the tests a big box of it awaited them. It was time to go back, they went where the unicorn was and took them to the meadow. They collected everything and went to their home. They felt happy and surprised but sad because they could not go back.
